

Student Training Programme
on
Environmental Sustainability and Climate Action through the SDG Framework

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Environmental sustainability and climate action have emerged as defining challenges of the 21st century. Institutions of higher education play a pivotal role in promoting awareness, capacity building, and action-oriented engagement aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

This six-day training programme is designed to provide a structured, interdisciplinary, and context-specific understanding of environmental sustainability, climate change, biodiversity conservation, and governance through the SDG framework, with special reference to Indian policies and local implementation strategies.

The programme emphasizes conceptual clarity, policy orientation, and practical applicability, making it suitable for faculty members, administrators, researchers, and students.

AIM OF THE PROGRAMME

To strengthen understanding of environmental sustainability and climate action among participants by linking scientific concepts, policy frameworks, and real-world applications with relevant Sustainable Development Goals.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Understand the foundations of environmental sustainability and explain the relevance of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) related to environment and climate.
- Identify and analyze key environmental SDGs (SDGs 6, 7, 9, 12, 13, 14, 15, and 16) and their role in addressing global and local environmental challenges.
- Assess water, sanitation, and energy systems from a sustainability perspective, with emphasis on water security, clean energy transition, and resource efficiency.
- Evaluate the environmental impacts of industrial growth and infrastructure development, and recognize the role of green technologies and sustainable production practices.
- Understand climate change science and climate risks, and distinguish between mitigation and adaptation strategies for enhancing environmental and community resilience.
- Analyze the importance of biodiversity and ecosystem conservation, including marine and terrestrial ecosystems, for long-term environmental sustainability.
- Examine environmental governance and policy frameworks, with special reference to India's environmental and climate initiatives.
- Apply environmental SDG principles to real-world contexts through case studies, policy analysis, and practical examples.
- Develop basic environmental action plans aligned with SDGs for implementation at institutional, community, or organizational levels.

TARGET PARTICIPANTS

- Undergraduate Students
- Postgraduate Students
- Research Scholars
- Student Volunteers and Club Members
- NSS / Community Outreach Students

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

Dates: 11th – 15th November 2024

18th – 23rd Nov 2024

Session Timing: 2:30 PM – 3:30 PM

Mode: Interactive lectures with discussions and case-based examples

Target Participants: Students, faculty members, and institutional stakeholders

Approach: Conceptual understanding, policy orientation, and practical application

EXPECTED OUTCOMES

Participants will:

- Gain structured knowledge of environmental SDGs
- Develop environmental awareness and responsibility
- Understand policy and governance mechanisms
- Be able to contribute to sustainability initiatives at institutional and community levels

ORGANISING BODY

[Learning & Development Centre & Internal Quality Assurance Cell in collaboration with SDG Committee]

DAY-WISE DETAILED PROGRAMME SCHEDULE

- Students per Batch: 998 + 1021
- Total Students Benefited: 2019
- Sessions Conducted: Five sessions conducted simultaneously to ensure effective coverage and engagement

Introduction

In alignment with its institutional vision of promoting sustainable development, environmental responsibility, and quality education, the institution organized a large-scale training programme titled “Environmental Sustainability and Climate Action through the SDG Framework.” The programme was conducted under the aegis of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Committee, with academic and operational support from the Learning and Development Centre (LDC). The initiative reflects the institution’s proactive approach toward integrating sustainability principles into higher education and empowering students to address pressing environmental and climate challenges.

Environmental degradation, climate change, biodiversity loss, and resource scarcity have emerged as some of the most critical global issues of the 21st century. Addressing these challenges requires informed participation, interdisciplinary understanding, and action-oriented learning, particularly among young learners. Recognizing the crucial role of students as future leaders and change-makers, the institution conceptualized this programme to enhance climate literacy, promote sustainability awareness, and foster responsible environmental behavior.

The training programme was designed to provide a structured understanding of environmental sustainability and climate action through the lens of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). It emphasized the interconnectedness of environmental, social, and economic dimensions of sustainability and highlighted the importance of aligning individual, institutional, and community actions with global development priorities.

Programme Structure and Participation

The training programme was conducted over a period of two weeks and was systematically divided into two batches, each spanning one week (six working days). A total of 2019 students participated, making it one of the largest sustainability-focused training initiatives organized by the institution.

Each batch followed a well-defined schedule with daily sessions from 02:30 PM to 03:30 PM. The programme was delivered in offline mode, allowing for direct interaction between resource persons and participants. To manage the large number of students effectively and ensure quality engagement, five sessions were conducted simultaneously in different venues during each time slot. This decentralized yet coordinated approach ensured smooth execution, effective content delivery, and active student participation.

The structured format of the programme enabled uniform dissemination of knowledge while maintaining flexibility for interactive discussions and student engagement across all venues.

Objectives of the Programme

The training programme was organized with the following key objectives:

- Understand the foundations of environmental sustainability and explain the relevance of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) related to environment and climate.
- Identify and analyze key environmental SDGs (SDGs 6, 7, 9, 12, 13, 14, 15, and 16) and their role in addressing global and local environmental challenges.
- Assess water, sanitation, and energy systems from a sustainability perspective, with emphasis on water security, clean energy transition, and resource efficiency.
- Evaluate the environmental impacts of industrial growth and infrastructure development, and recognize the role of green technologies and sustainable production practices.
- Understand climate change science and climate risks, and distinguish between mitigation and adaptation strategies for enhancing environmental and community resilience.
- Analyze the importance of biodiversity and ecosystem conservation, including marine and terrestrial ecosystems, for long-term environmental sustainability.
- Examine environmental governance and policy frameworks, with special reference to India's environmental and climate initiatives.

- Apply environmental SDG principles to real-world contexts through case studies, policy analysis, and practical examples.
- Develop basic environmental action plans aligned with SDGs for implementation at institutional, community, or organizational levels.

Thematic Focus and SDG Integration

The core theme of the programme focused on environmental sustainability and climate action through the SDG framework. The sessions were carefully designed to highlight the integrated and interdependent nature of environmental, economic, and social systems. Students were introduced to the concept of sustainability as a holistic approach that balances development needs with environmental protection and social equity.

Special emphasis was placed on environmental SDGs, enabling students to understand how global goals translate into local and national actions. The programme highlighted contemporary environmental challenges such as water scarcity, pollution, climate variability, biodiversity loss, unsustainable production patterns, and governance gaps. Through the SDG framework, students were encouraged to view these challenges as interconnected issues requiring collaborative and multidisciplinary solutions.

Day-wise Programme Implementation

The six-day training programme followed a structured and progressive thematic outline to ensure conceptual clarity and continuity of learning:

- Day1:

The programme commenced with an introduction to sustainability concepts, environmental systems, and climate change. The session highlighted the evolution of sustainable development and the relevance of SDGs in addressing global environmental challenges.

- Day2:

The focus was on water resources, sanitation, and clean energy, emphasizing sustainable water management practices, water conservation, sanitation systems, and renewable energy transitions.

- Day3:

This session addressed sustainable industry, innovation, and infrastructure, highlighting green technologies, sustainable manufacturing, responsible production practices, and eco-friendly infrastructure development.

- Day4:

The fourth day was dedicated to climate change science, covering causes, impacts, mitigation strategies, and adaptation measures, with special emphasis on resilience building and climate risk reduction.

- Day5:

The fifth day focused on biodiversity conservation, encompassing both Life Below Water and Life on Land, and discussed ecosystem protection, conservation strategies, and the importance of biodiversity for sustainable development.

- Day6:

The final day addressed environmental governance, policy frameworks, and India's environmental and climate initiatives, culminating in discussions on SDG-aligned action planning at institutional and community levels.

Resource Persons and Training Methodology

The Environmental Sustainability and Climate Action Training Programme was conducted by experienced faculty members from the Learning and Development Centre (LDC) and the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), in collaboration with members and advisors of the SDG Committee. The resource persons brought strong interdisciplinary expertise and shared practical insights into environmental sustainability, climate action strategies, relevant policy frameworks, and contemporary environmental challenges at local, national, and global levels.

The training methodology adopted a blended and participatory approach, integrating expert lectures, interactive discussions, case-based learning, and contextual real-world examples. Participants were actively encouraged to engage in dialogue, reflect on environmental and climate-related issues, and critically examine sustainable practices. The sessions also guided students to conceptualize simple, actionable environmental and climate action plans aligned with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), thereby fostering environmental awareness, responsibility, and a solution-oriented mindset.

Outcomes and Learning Impact

The training programme resulted in a significant enhancement of students' awareness and understanding of environmental sustainability and climate action. Participants developed a clearer understanding of climate risks, environmental governance mechanisms, and the interconnected nature of SDGs.

The programme contributed substantially to capacity building in sustainable development, environmental stewardship, and climate-responsive thinking. Students demonstrated increased sensitivity toward environmental issues and expressed greater willingness to adopt sustainable practices in their personal, academic, and community lives.

Overall Feedback

The overall feedback received from participants was highly positive and encouraging. Students appreciated the relevance and timeliness of the programme, particularly its focus on real-world environmental challenges and SDG integration. Many participants highlighted that the structured day-wise progression helped them understand complex sustainability concepts in a clear and systematic manner.

The interactive nature of the sessions, practical examples, and policy-oriented discussions were widely appreciated. Students expressed that the programme enhanced their awareness of individual responsibility in addressing environmental issues and inspired them to contribute meaningfully to sustainability initiatives. The large-scale organization, effective coordination, and faculty-led delivery were also positively acknowledged.

Overall, the feedback reflected that the programme successfully met its objectives and created a lasting impact on students' environmental awareness and climate consciousness.

Conclusion

The Environmental Sustainability and Climate Action Training Programme stands as a significant institutional initiative aimed at embedding sustainability principles within academic learning and student development. The large-scale participation, structured delivery, and multidisciplinary approach underscore the institution's strong commitment to sustainability education and environmental responsibility.

By empowering students with knowledge, awareness, and action-oriented perspectives, the programme contributed meaningfully toward fostering environmentally responsible citizens and future leaders. The initiative aligns strongly with national priorities and global sustainability goals, reinforcing the institution's role in promoting sustainable development and climate action.
