Report

On 7th August 2023, as a part of orientation program, a gender sensitization session was conducted at Himalayan School of Biosciences. This aimed to raise awareness about gender-related issues, promote gender inclusivity, and foster a respectful and equitable environment for all participants. The session began at 10:30 am, with an introduction by Dr. Geeta Bhandari, on gender equality. She started the session by explaining the distinction between gender and sex. The participants were encouraged to challenge stereotypes and explore the spectrum of gender identities. Further the session delved into prevalent gender stereotypes and biases that can perpetuate inequality. Interactive discussions and activities helped participants recognize and address unconscious biases.

Report

Dr. Ruchi Juyal, Professor at the Himalayan Institute of Medical Sciences, SRHU, conducted a gender sensitization session for 130 MBBS students. This session aimed to enhance the students' understanding of gender issues, promote gender equality, and discuss the impact of gender bias in healthcare settings. Dr Juyal, utilized a combination of lecture, multimedia presentation, case studies, and interactive activities to engage the students and provide a comprehensive overview of the topic.

The session covered several key topics, including the importance of gender sensitization, common gender stereotypes, and their impacts, as well as examples of gender bias in medical treatment. Through group discussions, role-playing exercises, and practical tools, students were equipped with strategies to identify and address gender bias in their future professional practice. These activities allowed students to share personal experiences and learn effective communication techniques for fostering an inclusive healthcare environment.

Feedback from the students indicated a significant increase in their awareness and understanding of gender issues, along with a commitment to applying the knowledge gained in their careers. The session successfully highlighted the importance of gender sensitivity in medical practice and provided actionable strategies for creating a gender-inclusive environment.

Workshop on 'Women Empowerment through Science and Technology in Uttarakhand'

Date: 29-30 March, 2024

Activity: The NASI Uttarakhand Chapter sponsored a National Workshop on "Women Empowerment in Uttarakhand through Science and Technology Interventions" on March 29-30, 2024, at Swami Rama Himalayan University. The workshop, chaired by Dr Manju Sharma, highlighted the transformative role of Science and Technology (S&T) in empowering women in the region. Over 100 women from diverse fields, including researchers, scientists, clinicians, and entrepreneurs, participated. Key discussions included actionable strategies for increasing women's participation in STEM fields, improving healthcare access, fostering entrepreneurship, and advancing socio-economic conditions. The workshop recommended fostering stronger collaborations between government, academia, and industry to create sustainable support systems for women. Additionally, mentorship programs and S&T training were highlighted as essential for building skills and confidence in women.

The workshop featured various technical sessions addressing priority areas such as agriculture, health, AI, and IT. Experts, including Dr Paramjit Khurana and Prof. Meenu Gupta, discussed gender-sensitive approaches in agriculture and healthcare, focusing on women's leadership in agri-business and early detection of cancers like cervical and breast cancer. Other sessions emphasized the role of AI and IoT in enhancing healthcare and the need for skilled manpower in S&T sectors. The concluding session presented key recommendations, including targeted initiatives for rural women, community engagement through workshops, and raising awareness of women's health issues. The workshop set a foundation for ongoing efforts to empower women in Uttarakhand through S&T interventions.
